"More visitors" exclaimed a voice from behind the bars as an APPEAL man pushed open a door in the rear of the station-house about 9 o'clock last night.

Half reclining upon a rough board in the "cage" was the graceful, well-dressed person of Mr. W. O. Cotton, a telegraph operator in the employ of the Western Union.

"It was a sort of a love quarrel, you see," remarked Mr. Cotton from between his white teeth, as he stroked his killing black moustache.

Mr. Cotton was reminded that mere love quarrels usually ended in "kiss and be friends," and replied that he hoped the present affair would be without any more serious result,

"I have just had a long talk with that you were engaged?

"I don't know how report had it, but I was never engaged to be married to her. This is a pretty rough scrape, but it is just such a one as almost a yyoung man is lively to get into, and nothing more. She and I have been boarding at the same house, Mrs. Blackburn's, No. 117 Court street. Yesterday I found her in the room of Mrs. Cooper, who used to be a circus rider, and who lives over Fuchs', on Jefferson street, i persuaded her to leave the place with me, and we went over into Court Square where, she said, a lady friend was waiting to see her. I left her there, and, going back to Mrs. Cooper's, got the baby and took it back to the boarding house on Court street, thinking she would be there by that time. But she had not returned, and I went back to work.' "Did you know that she had sworn out a peace warrant against you, that she charges you with having as-saulted her at Mrs. Cooper's room, and with having stolen her baby?

While I was there Mr. Cotton came in the room and made himself at home. He used language to me that no gentleman ought to use to a lady on first acquaintance. She came up here this morning with her child, and late in the afternoon some one knocked at the door. Mrs. Lightburne ex-claimed that it was Mr. Cotton and begged me not to let him in. I didn't like for the other people on the floor to see a man standing at my door, and while Mrs. Lightburne ran into the next room and closed the door, admitted Mr. Cotton. THE SPRING RACES.

TIMELY GOSSIP ABOUT RUNNERS AT THE TRACK.

Opening Day of the Mobile Meeting -The Winners-Mr. Munger in Town.

There are over 150 horses in active training at Memphis, which seems to have developed into a favorite training ground for the spring campaign. The officers of the association are par t cularly polite and accommodating to all, and the sp ing meeting promises to be a grand success. The Spirit of the Times, in its issue of the 10th in-stant, says: "There has been a change between showers. Mr. Corrigan has started to work his horses in earnes', and says, rain or shine, from this to the races his horses shall be worked daily. Freeland, Modesty, Swiney, Pearl Jennings, Lizzie Dwyer and Irish Pat have all been moved slong several gallops at a 2.00 gair, and some few quarters in 27 seconds. His whole stable are apparently doing well, although some of his big legged ones pull up lame and go to the stable on two and three legs, but after a soak in het water come out for their gallops next day apparently as good as new. Mr. Pate's stable all continue to look and act well. Editor certainly has the finest action I ever saw, and if my eye can be relied on as a measure of speed there are few, if any, that ever passed me at a faster rate of speed than Edi-or did a few days ago.

"Mr. Green Morris is very industrious with his string and moves invaria-bly so as to throw every one off as to their reat merits, white Berean is daily gaining favor among the touts' (one of which Col. Montgomery requested to leave the grounds). Lamarney Brus,' Langview looks and ants like a really good horse. Jim Gray is attractive considerable, notice, every tracting considerable notice every day—that he gallops fast. Mr. Lucas's table has so recovered from their coughs is to be out again and taking their daily gallops. Philip 8. and Por-ter Ashe are (if looks indicate anything) really race-horses.

"All the other stables here are doing well, but as the Louisville Dixiana and Fleetwood handicaps are all the talk among horsemen here, among both those entered and thuse that go to Washington, all of whom agree as to the injustice done to many, you will please pardon me for diverging and grant me space to repeat the remarks made by many here at to the lack of common sense displayed by the handicapper in the weights allotted to teveral, if not all, the horses in those two races, more particularly the Dixiana. First of all Freeland is in with one pound over his due weight, while Preciosa has five pounds over her weight, thus giving Freeland four pounds. Bluestone, a horse that never won but one race, and a selling race at that, where he was in to be sold for $500, and only ran five-eighths in 1:08 over a fairly good track, has four purds over his weight, he giving Freeland three pounds, and giving such a horse as Traubadour ten pounds, Kosciusko seven pounds, and many others that have shown to be also gives weight to, and, as one gentleman remarked, 'Can it be pos-sible that any sane man, who is at all posted in the weighting of horses and has a grain of honesty, could be have carefully looked over those weights and said to himself they are reasonably fair?' 'No,' said another.

"Mr. Corrigan is so much pleased with Memphis that he has concluded to make it his winter quarters for a good share of his horses. He is having built a model stable, 50x2.0 feet, and it will be a model of convenience and comfort in every respect. Several other turfmen are building stables; also avenues are being laid out, bordered with shade trees, and the grounds plowed up and sown down in blue grass and clover. "A gentleman who recently saw Freeland work at Memphia with Swiney says he did nothing very fact until the finish. On adjourning to his stable be found the conqueror of Miss Woodford with his legs in the inevi-table the of hot water, while he at oats from the hand of one of his visitors. Mr. Corrigan, it would appear from this, still change to the hot

THE BUFFALO GNAT. Prof Lugger Concludes His Investi-

Prof. () to Lugger, sent is a special ist from Washington to investigate the buffalo gen, and with whom an interview was published in the Arrival some two weeks ago, has concluded his work, and passed through the city yesterday on his way back to Washington. He was seen by an Ar PEAL man, who inquired if he had made any further discoveries of interest. "Well, yes," he raid, "I have found that overflow, instead of breeding the goats, has had a contrary effect, and this year a great number of their immature larvie was destroyed by back water in the various streams All indications point to the belief that buffalo grats will be exceedingly scarce for the next three years, and the few local swarms which will ap pear will not be numerous enough to do any damage."

Prof. Lugger will return is O tober, with a view of mapping out the calities in which the buffalo gnat
